Man kills wife, daughter, attempts suicide

- Husband and wife were software engineers and were out of job; property dispute and addiction to alcohol said to be prime reasons.
- After committing crime, killer consumes alcohol, chicken even as bodies of wife and child were lying in two bedrooms.

Mysuru, May 25 (RK&BCT)- Unemployment despite good education and work experience, property dispute and constant fight in the family drove a software engineer (design) to kill his wife and only child in city. After committing the crime, the engineer also attempted to end his life but was unsuccessful. He is now admitted to a private hospital where he is recuperating.

The incident occurred at Vijayanagar Fourth Stage near Basavanahalli Circle and the engineer is R. Prajwal. He killed his 38-year-old wife Savitha, a computer science engineer and 10-year-old daughter Sinchana, a fourth standard student at SVEI School, Vijayanagar Fourth Stage. Police said that Prajwal slit the throats of Savitha and Sinchana on May 23 and attempted to kill himself on May 24 (yesterday).

Prajwal is the son of M. Ramachandra, a resident of Yadavagiri who retired as the Assistant General Manager (quality assessment) from Bharat Earth Movers Limited (BEML) in Bengaluru. Prajwal's family hails from Nanjangud while Savitha is from K.R. Pet. Ramachandra and family stayed at Basaveshwaranagar in Bengaluru and had a house at Yadavagiri in Mysuru.

UNEMPLOYMENT: Prajwal and Savitha were employed in Bengaluru in software companies and sometime back, Prajwal's company closed down, leaving him without a job. Family sources said that Prajwal was upset about this and he used to confide with his father that he had to take care of his growing daughter.

As Prajwal could not find any other job, his father advised him to shift to Mysuru and as per plans, Ramachandra sold a site in Bengaluru for Rs. 80 lakh and purchased a house in Vijayanagar Fourth Stage for Prajwal to stay along with his family. Savitha too resigned and the family shifted to Mysuru.

Everything was hunky-dory in Mysuru and the couple admitted their daughter to the SVEI School and both of them were looking for a job. Prajwal's father told the Police that both his son and daughter-in-law were looking out for a job but had failed despite having sufficient experience. Realising the tense situation in the family over the job, Ramachandra said he gave Prajwal Rs. 25,000 every month for maintenance and also was funding the education of the child.

Creativity-challenged country

The performance of institutions currently functioning across the country ostensibly to subserve the purpose of training the successive generations from childhood through adulthood by the arduous process of learning has been rated far below both required standards and global levels on many counts, but most importantly on the count of creativity of products from the thousands of colleges of science, engineering and technology, not to sideline other pursuits. Not sounding over-sarcastic, a keen observer of the goings on in the country turned the spotlight on the growing number of vote-seekers vying to garner votes from the voting mass marked by a minor presence of sections with even elementary understanding of the spirit of democracy. Asking the question "Who says that the country is creativity-challenged?" and also answering he opined that democracy is not limited to the act of voting but enlarges to entice the gullible electorate with tantalising offer of gifts, get elected to the law-making bodies, grab posts of power and authority and achieve personal prosperity by fooling the diaspora displaying creativity although in a negative sense.

The creative faculty of the vote-seekers who clinch victory at the hustings by foul tactics mocks at the institutions of learning at all levels producing graduates lacking creativity barring exceptions to a negligible extent. In an act of pulling wool over the eyes of the country's gullible masses as it were, the netas of well-marked political parties want the people to accept that India is a secular nation. Can anybody miss the drama of the netas sharing the spoils of power based on their castes?

The academics of all hues as well as the leading lights in society, recognised and respected for their track record as good Samaritans, take fascination to prick holes in the country's education sector ad nauseum over many decades without any semblance of consensus on measures of damage control. Their unrelenting criticism of every aspect of the sector is well-taken but the powers that be both in the Central Government of the country and its counterparts in the 36 States and Union Territories, being engaged 24x7 in pursuing their personal agenda of enjoying authority with disdain, enriching themselves by unethical means, don't seem to care less. The creativity displayed by the well-marked slice of the country's population to their headcount by producing children only adds insult to injury as it were.

Even as the nation is fast getting into the grip of a growing number of undesirable elements holding the society to ransom, as being faithfully portrayed by the ever-alert media, the imperatives of creativity on the part of the land's people to preserve, protect and promote the country's social and cultural image in a vibrant economic march cannot be ignored. The land's youth have their task cut out in saving the creativity-challenged nation with generous help from society's mentors (if there are any).

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

This refers to the financial profits that a capitalist earns by underpaying his workers. The idea of surplus value was proposed by German philosopher Karl Marx in his various works, including his famous book,* Das Kapital. *Marx believed that labour is fundamental to all value created in any economy and that underpaid labour is the source of all profits that accumulate to capitalists. Critics, however, have dismissed Marx's theory by arguing that profits are the rewards enjoyed by capitalists for risking their capital in making investments. To prove their case, they have pointed to the losses incurred by capitalists as a result of poor investment decisions. — In The Hindu.

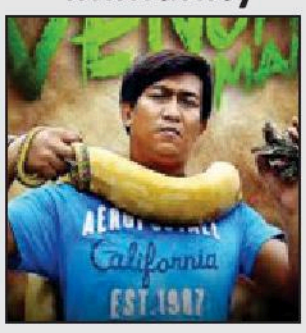
Woman claims to be world's oldest mother

Mazatlan: A 71-year-old woman from Mazatlan in Mexico had claimed to be six-months pregnant and will soon give birth to a beautiful girl which would make her the oldest mother in history.

The woman identified as Maria de la Luz says that she first suspected that she was pregnant three months ago, when she started feeling tired and experienced symptoms like dizziness and vomiting. She said that she went to a private clinic for an ultrasound which revealed that she was going to become a mother for the ninth time. The woman admits that doctors at the clinic were even more surprised than she was.

Many doctors believe the woman's story is simply made up, because conceiving a baby at that age is virtually impossible, and even her neighbors aren't convinced she is telling the truth.

Cobra bites to build venom immunity



Cagayan de Oro: A young snake catcher from the Philippines, has been nicknames as 'Venom Man' for his unusual habit of allowing poisonous snakes to bite him every week and even injecting small quantities of venom into his body to boost his resistance to it.

31-year-old Joe Quililan, from Cagayan de Oro City, caught his first Northern Philippine Cobra when he was 14-years-old. One day the cobra bit him, but instead of going to the hospital, the teen just brushed it off and got on with his day as if nothing had happened. The first snake bite made him realise that he had an unusual resistance to cobra venom, and spent the following years trying to become completely immune to it.

MCC swings into action, clears dead trees, protruding branches

Mysuru, May 25 (SBD&NNN)- Mysuru City Corporation staff swung into action by clearing branches hanging dangerously and bringing down weak and dead trees from yesterday.

The action follows, after people expressed grave concern about the loss of life of a young techie when a tree came crashing down on the autorickshaw near ESI Hospital on KRS Road in which she was travelling.

Another reason is because of the heavy rains accompanied by gusty winds that have lashed the city since the last few days uprooting trees and bringing down branches, the MCC staff has intensified its operation.

A giant tree on Nilgiri Road near the footpath of the East Gate of Mysore Palace was removed yesterday.

The operation of clearing the tree was led by MCC's Horticulture Department Assistant Director Muralidhar. The staff, with the help of a JCB machine brought the tree down.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Muralidhar said that the tree was almost 75-years-old and was completely weak and it could have come crashing down any moment.

"Hence, to avoid any untoward incident we took the decision of removing the tree. We sought the help of Traffic Police to stop the traffic on this busy road. The operation that began in the morning went on till evening," he said and added "A big branch next to this tree has also been cut and we took the permission from the Forest Department."

Further he said, "Even for cutting a small branch we need the permission of the Forest Department. First we have to apply for it and the process for approval takes a long time. Still there are nearly 50 to 60 such applications pending before the Department. This results in the delay of removing trees or cutting branches."

According to Muralidhar, he personally went to the Forest Department and met the officials instead of waiting for the permission and asked them to come to the spot to clear the trees posing danger.

"In the first stage we have started the operations on Nilgiri Road and a few other prominent places," he said.

Leopard kills pig, dogs, cats; creates panic at Naguvanahalli

Villagers are seen removing the carcass of the dead pig which was killed by a leopard at a field in Naguvanahalli yesterday. Other pictures show a cage placed in the field of Annaiah to trap the leopard and the pug mark found near the field. [Pics by G. Ravishankar]

Mysuru, May 25 (KS)- Fear and panic has gripped the villagers of Naguvanahalli in Srirangapatna taluk after a villager saw a leopard jumping from a tree and chasing a pig. Pug marks of the leopard have been found at the spot to confirm its presence in the village.

Annaiah, a villager, speaking to Star of Mysore this morning said that he had seen a leopard jumping from a tree and entering his field about 12 days ago. He further said that yesterday, the leopard had chased a pig from the village and killed it in his field. "It has also killed my pet cat and a few dogs too," Annaiah said.

Following the leopard scare and complaint from the villagers, the Forest Department staff have placed a cage in the farm of Annaiah and have a tied a dog inside the cage as bait to lure the leopard into the cage.

The villagers now hope that the Forest Department would trap the leopard soon so that they work freely and without fear in their fields.

It is learnt that the forest staff have stayed put in the village.

VOICE OF THE READER

Now is the Family Time...

Sir,

I was really touched to read N.K.A. Ballal's article titled "Time for Family" in SOM dated May 17. Tears started to flow over my cheeks.

Little more than eight years ago, I called my father in Mysuru. It was in the month of November 2009 to be precise. He said, "I want to hand over some of the things about family and want to talk less and meditate more." I even chided him as to why he should say such things. Because, in my mind, he is healthy at 85 years with no medical issues and a very active person. I used to call him once a month or so and visit once a year from the US.

December came and went, January and February also came and went... I was 'busy' for one reason or the other. In the meantime, my wife became sick and I did not want my dad to know because he was very much attached to her and I was afraid something might happen to him if I mention about my wife's illness. He did not want me to call unless he could speak with my wife too. Before that time came, during the first week of March 2010, I got a phone call from India. What other news can I expect? My father passed away peacefully.

I was and am still devastated for not being with him sufficiently, not conversing with him frequently, not able to say "Thank You" to him for millions of things that he did to me throughout his life. How can I repay him? He was just a "Railway clerk" and I am a Neurosurgeon. I would trade anything in life to get him back, even for a few days, but I know I am asking for impossible things to happen.

Everyday I look up to him because he is my God. I am nobody in front of him. Occasionally, I cry when I am alone. To compensate for my unforgivable mistakes, now I visit Mysuru at least 3-4 times a year to see my mom, brother and sisters, who all live in Mysuru.

I thought of sharing my story to let people know that I am one of those who made the mistake of missing family time. I will be in Mysuru between June 4-6 and if I could meet you and Mr. Ballal even for just half an hour, I would be happy.

The Nipah Virus Scare!

Like a bolt from the blue, the spectre of the deadly Nipah virus infection which was almost unknown to most people has come into the limelight over the past two weeks. The first known outbreak of this disease was from the village of Nipah in Malaysia in the year 1998 and fruit bats or flying foxes and pigs are the two animal vectors that are known to act as reservoirs and transmitters of the Nipah virus without themselves suffering from its harmful effects.

An interesting fact is that while the high physical activity and the consequent high body temperature of the bats is thought to be the reason why they themselves do not fall prey to the disease, it is puzzling why an animal as sedentary and as lazy as the pig is able to resist it! Incidentally, bats are known to harbour and transmit more than sixty different kinds of viruses, some of which are responsible for some of the most deadly diseases known to man.

The twin facts that there is no definitive cure for the Nipah virus disease and that it carries a very high mortality of almost 80 percent has naturally unnerved most people. People in our State are particularly worried that since it has made its appearance in our neighbouring State of Kerala it can easily spread to our State too. This is not too unjustified a fear as direct person to person contact is the main mode of transmission of this infection and there is a considerable interaction between the people of our two States. This fear is compounded by the fact that bats which are known to transmit this disease fly over long distances during their nocturnal feeding sorties, naturally without respecting State borders. Thanks to the social media, the fear of contracting this infection, which has gone viral, has gripped our society and it is spreading faster than the virus itself.

But this need not be so as most people are not exposed to pigs, bats or fruits infected by bats that have attempted to feed on them. The proper quarantining measures taken by our health authorities and the preventive measures advocated by them if followed by us can go a very long way in safeguarding our health. As a first step, people should stop believing all that they see about this infection and its management on social media posts. Much of what is circulated is utter rubbish without any scientific basis which seems to be fabricated endlessly by some very unscrupulous individuals who take a perverse delight in creating panic through rumour mongering.

It is sad that most educated and knowledgeable people too fall prey to this and become jittery quite needlessly. There are dozens of other very potent and incurable viral infections like Ebola, Middle Eastern Respiratory Syndrome and Swine flu which keep surfacing from time to time somewhere in the world only to die a natural death without wiping us out. This is the natural history of most viral diseases.

The deadly Singapore flu epidemic of 1957 which ran through our country too was reportedly so deadly that it was said that people who carried the dead for their last rites had to be themselves carried just a few hours later. But that too was only a transient pestilence. So there is no point in panicking and resorting to all kinds of irrational preventive and curative measures that only end up making us all look like fools.

If you live well away from areas of its outbreak and if you happen to suffer from symptoms of malaise, cold, cough and fever, you are more likely to be having the common flu rather than anything serious. Any panic is completely unfounded. Well, if you do happen to be in the vicinity of the infection it makes sense to be a little careful and take some scientifically correct precautions. These include the incorporation of quarantine measures for patients and good personal hygiene measure like washing of hands for those who care for them. Washing fruits well before eating them and not consuming any fruits that appear to have been damaged by birds or bats makes sense.

Remember that this is not the first outbreak of Nipah Virus disease in India. It had made a brief appearance in West Bengal in the years 2001 and 2007 but luckily it disappeared without spreading. Let us hope that this time too we may see the same thing happening!

Nipah threat: Don't travel to Kerala, warns Health Dept.

Bengaluru, May 25 (KMS& BCT)- Amidst rising concerns about the 'Nipah virus' (NiV) following an outbreak in Kerala, the State Health and Family Welfare Department has issued a list of precautionary measures for the public, which includes avoiding cut fruits sold on the roadside, unprocessed dry fruits or unprocessed date palm juice.

Also, the Tourism Department is advising people to avoid visiting God's Own Country — Kerala. The Department has advised people to avoid visiting Kerala, especially four districts — Kozhikode, Malappuram, Wayanad and Kannur — where cases of Nipah infection have been reported.

The Department has said that since it was a communicable disease, those who travel to Kerala may carry the virus to Karnataka. "Tourists should avoid visiting Kerala this season. In case of emergency, those travelling there should be extremely careful," an official said.

T.K. Anil Kumar, Secretary to the Department of Tourism, said they will co-ordinate with their counterparts in the Health Department on the safety measures that need to be taken. People should take the advice of the health officials seriously. The two Departments will discuss as to how and where tourists from Kerala can be screened. The Departments are taking stock of the number of tourists, the entry and exit points. They are collecting data from various stakeholders on the tourist inflow.

In its advisory, the Health Department also recommends avoiding drinking toddy/ Neera, consuming fruits bitten by birds and animals, fruits that have fallen from trees, coming in contact with infected pigs, and rubbing eyes with unclean hands. It also suggests keeping wells covered with a mesh to prevent entry of bats, and boiling water from the well before drinking it.

Meanwhile, travel agents have already started witnessing cancellations and drop in bookings to Kerala. They point that not only leisure travel, corporate bookings too have come to a halt. Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation (KSTDC) officials said bookings to Kerala had taken a beating soon after the news of the virus spread. Inquiries pertaining to cancellation of bookings were on the rise, he added.

Rise in Petrol Price

P. Chidambaram should not mislead the country. He wants Modi to become a magician and cut petrol price by Rs. 25

By Dr. Bhamy V. Shenoy
Oil Industry Expert

Dr. Bhamy V. Shenoy

P. Chidambaram

Here is one more reason to convince critics of Modi that NDA's policy was far more progressive than the populist policy of UPA. While NDA succeeded in collecting additional revenues of Rs. 4.4 trillions during its four-year rule, UPA incurred a loss of Rs. 4.3 trillions by selling petrol and diesel below cost between 2005-06 and 2014-15. Who are the real beneficiaries of different policies of NDA and UPA?

Under UPA, when crude oil prices averaged $132 per barrel in July 2008 (it was during that month Brent reached a historic high of $147/b) petrol price was just Rs. 50.62 per litre. Today when oil price is around $80/b, petrol price has reached a high of Rs. 76.57 per litre in Delhi. On the surface it looks like Prime Minister Narendra Modi has been citizen unfriendly. No.

Natural for anyone to think that when international prices have fallen (by $52/b, 2008 versus 2018), petrol prices in India should also fall. But it has not. It is this simplistic, non-expert thinking which must have impelled or provoked the former Finance Minister P. Chidambaram to tweet that Modi can easily cut petrol price by Rs. 25. However, when we analyse the factors behind the petrol price movement, one will wonder how a responsible leader can mislead the country. It is shocking.

NDA was lucky that soon after it came to power oil prices fell. It wisely decided not to pass on all the benefits to consumers. It increased excise taxes on petrol in small doses from Rs. 9.48 per litre to current rate of Rs. 19.48 per litre and for diesel it was from Rs. 3.56 per litre to 15.33 per litre.

Chidambaram must be aware that under his government policy the public sector oil companies (Indian Oil, Bharat Petroleum and Hindustan Petroleum) were bleeding. He must also be knowing that their irrational pricing policies forced private sector oil companies like Reliance, Essar and Shell to close down their thousands of stations. Their stations were far more efficient than the ones operated by the public sector giants. In addition, the so-called "under recoveries" (in simple term losses) by the public sector companies were reaching stratosphere. In 2012-13 under recoveries of public sector oil companies was mind-boggling Rs. 1.6 trillion.

Here is one more reason to convince critics of Modi that NDA's policy was far more progressive than the populist policy of UPA. While NDA succeeded in collecting additional revenues of Rs. 4.4 trillions during its four-year rule, UPA incurred a loss of Rs. 4.3 trillions by selling petrol and diesel below cost between 2005-06 and 2014-15. Who are the real beneficiaries of different policies of NDA and UPA?

UPA's munificence (selling fuels below cost) mostly helped the middle class and the rich. It also increased fiscal deficit resulting in higher inflation which harmed the poor. NDA's policy of not passing the benefits of lower crude oil price (by imposing additional excise taxes) helped them to finance various welfare measures, reduce fiscal deficit and check the inflation.

I am sure the former Finance Minister must be fully aware of these facts. As suggested by Chidambaram, NDA can reduce excise taxes by Rs. 10 and revert to the level of UPA. But as a consequence what will happen to fiscal deficit? Where will Modi find the additional Rs. 15 to cut? Is he expecting Modi to force oil companies to lose (as happened when he was the Finance Minister) or ask States to reduce their VAT or act as a magician?

NOTE: Dr. Bhamy V. Shenoy, an IITM graduate, has over 50 years of experience in international oil industry having worked for Conoco in US, and Europe. He was on the board of Georgian National Oil company, Advisor to former Soviet Union countries of Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan, Turkmenistan and Georgia and also advised Ghanian Government, Pemex in Mexico, Pertamina in Indonesia, etc. In India, he served as a member of Advisory Committee to Chairman of ONGC.

He was senior advisor to Centre for Energy Economics at University of Texas.

International Crude Oil Price Vs Indian Petrol Price

Now, apply for DL sitting at home; Visit www.parivahan.gov.in

Mysuru, May 25 (RK&NNN)- Most of the services in the Regional Transport Office (RTO) including the application for Learner's Licence (LL) and Driving Licence (DL) in the Mysuru Division that includes the districts of Mysuru, Mandya, Hassan, Chamarajanagar and Kodagu, is going online from today.

The online application window, Sarathi-4, was first launched in some of the RTOs in Bengaluru in February-March. "Seeing the positive response, the Department decided to extend the facility to Mysuru and as a result we started the online service from today," said RTO West M. Prabhuswamy, speaking to Star of Mysore here this morning.

Though the application for LL and DL was online under the previous version of the software Sarathi-3, the applicants had to fill the details online and also submit a physical copy of the documents. The applicants were also required to visit the RTO for signing the document.

M. Prabhuswamy, RTO West

"In Sarathi-4, such issues have been dispensed with, except going to the RTO for driving test evaluation. Another main reason is to minimise the intervention of middlemen and bring in total transparency in the issuing of LLs and DLs," said Prabhuswamy.

In the new software, the applicants can sit at home and apply online for DL and even the fees can be paid online. There will be 15 questions which the applicants have to answer and out of that if they answer ten questions correctly, then one can pass the test otherwise it will be rejected, he said.

There are 40 driving schools in the city and the Principals of these schools have been trained how to apply for the LL and DL for their clients online. The following are the services available online: Change of address (Migration of DL), Renewal of DL, Issue of Duplicate DL, Additional endorsement of DL and a few others.

To apply online, one can go to the website www.parivahan.gov.in/parivahan, where all the details are available.

Ten-day Greeshma Rangotsava begins from tomorrow

CGK Memorial Amateur Theatre Festival

Mysuru, May 25-The ten-day Greeshma Rangotsava, a theatre festival, renamed CGK Memorial Amateur Theatre Festival, will begin from tomorrow and go on till June 24, said Rangayana Director Bhagirathi Bai Kadam.

Addressing a press conference at Sri Ranga in Rangayana premises here this morning, she said, earlier, the amateur plays in the memory of well-known theatre personality C.G. Krishnaswamy (CGK) was being held only on Sundays but from this year it will be held both on Saturdays and Sundays.

Hence, people can watch two plays in a week, unlike in the past, where they could watch only one play on Sunday and therefore there could just be four or five plays. Also the amateur theatre groups will get more chances to stage plays, she said.

This year, 10 plays will be staged from May 26 to June 24. "In all, 74 applications were received from different districts in the State at the zonal level. Out of them 10 plays were shortlisted to be staged," she said.

Realising the problems the amateur theatre groups face every time they come to stage plays it was decided to pay them an honorarium of Rs.20,000 per group apart from TA and DA. "This was done, as earlier, the theatre groups were allowed to collect the entry fee ticket collection. However, in this practice, a few of the groups were getting more and a few less depending on the gate collection. Hence, we decided to pay all of them a honorarium of Rs.20,000. However, the gate collection this time would go to Rangayana," she said.

All the plays will be staged at Bhoomigeetha at 6.30 pm. Tomorrow, senior theatre artist Malathi Sagar will inaugurate the festival at 6 pm. University of Mysore Registrar D. Bharathi will be the chief guest and Rangayana Director Bhagarathi Bai Kadam will preside. Greeshma Rangotsava Convenor Santosh Kumar Kusanoor and Rangayana Jt. Director V.N. Mallikarjunaswamy will be present.

The following are the plays to be staged: May 26- Bheemannana Maga by Indian Theatre, Mysuru, May 27-Maduve Hennu by Samurai Hosanagara, June 2-Kondavaryaaru by Vishwaranga Troupe, Kalburgi, June 3-Gathi by Rangasampada, Belagavi, June 9-Kurukshetra by Janamana Datha Troupe, Heggodu, June 10-Gulamana Swatantra by Ranga Aradhana Troupe, Savadatti, June 16-Kempukanagile by Natana, Mysuru, June 17-Ranga Jangama by Sanchari Troupe, Bengaluru, June 23-Kichhilada Bege by Hashmi Theatre Forum, Bengaluru and on June 24-Ondu Preetiya Kathe by Theatre Collective, Bengaluru.

DRINKING HABIT: Prajwal's was a duplex house and May 24th was the couple's 12th wedding anniversary. Meanwhile, Prajwal took to drinking and started picking up fights with his wife over trivial issues. So severe was his addiction that Prajwal's father Ramachandra got him admitted to many alcohol de-addiction centres in Mysuru and Bengaluru but his attempts failed to yield any results as Prajwal used to consume liquor as soon as he was back from the de-addiction centre.

THE FATEFUL DAY

Narrating the events on May 23, Prajwal told the Police that he had slit his wife's throat when she was sleeping on the first floor bedroom of the duplex house. He said that on that day, his daughter Sinchana had gone to his brother-in-law (Savitha's brother) Dr. Rajashekar's house at KHB Colony in Hootagalli.

Prajwal told the Police that after killing his wife and wiping off the blood stains from his hands, he went to Dr. Rajashekar's house to pick up his daughter. After bringing Sinchana to his house, Prajwal took her to another bedroom on the first floor and slit her throat on the evening of the same day.

POST-CRIME ACTIVITY

After murdering his loved ones, Prajwal went to the market and purchased cooked chicken and a few bottles of liquor and returned home. He started drinking from the night of May 23 even as the bodies of his wife and child were lying on the first floor of the house.

His drinking spree continued on May 24 (yesterday) and incidentally it was his wedding anniversary. After consuming liquor all day through, he started puking in the night. In a drunken state, he slit his own throat and wrists. But the cuts were not deep.

Unable to control his vomiting, choking, seizures and unbearable pain, Prajwal called up his father Ramachandra at 1.30 am and told him that he had cut himself and needed medical attention.

Ramachandra then asked Prajwal about his wife Savitha and Prajwal replied that she was no more. A shocked Ramachandra then immediately called the Police control room and also the Apollo Hospital. Vijayanagar Police team and the hospital ambulance rushed to Prajwal's house at around 2.30 am only to find Prajwal bleeding from his throat and wrist. His face was bloated and darkened due to blood stains and continuous drinking.

Prajwal was rushed to Apollo Hospital and his condition is stable. After shifting Prajwal, the Police searched the house and found the bodies of Savitha and Sinchana in separate rooms.

PROPERTY DISPUTE

In his statement to the Police, Prajwal said that he was living out of his father's money and was ashamed about it. He alleged that his wife Savitha was torturing him for property. Their house at Vijayanagar Fourth Stage was in the name of Prajwal's father Ramachandra and Savitha was pestering him to register the house in her name.

Prajwal told the Police that his wife even demanded the properties that the family owned in Nanjangud be registered in her name. Trying to settle the property issues, Ramachandra had told Savitha that his sisters and the other son (Prajwal's brother) R. Arjun had also share in the property and told her that he would partition the property when the time was appropriate.

SUICIDE PACT

Prajwal told the Police that two days before their anniversary (May 22), he had suggested the idea of a suicide pact as they could not live any longer under his father's mercy. His wife reportedly rejected the idea and also picked up a fight with Prajwal.

Prajwal revealed before the Police that he had made up his mind to eliminate his wife and child and also kill himself to avoid legal consequences. Accordingly, he executed his plan on May 23.

Vijayanagar Police Inspector Anil has registered a case of double murder. Narasimharaja Sub-division ACP C. Gopal, DCP N. Vishnuvardhana and City Police Commissioner Dr. A. Subramanyeswara Rao visited the spot. The bodies of Savitha and Sinchana have been sent to JSS Medical College Mortuary for post-mortem.

K.R. Ramesh Kumar elected as Speaker unopposed

Ramesh Kumar's name was then proposed by former Chief Minister and Congress Legislature Party leader Siddharamaiah and seconded by Deputy Chief Minister Dr. G. Parameshwara. The motion was unanimously adopted by the House.

Ramesh Kumar was the Speaker of the House from 1994 to 1999. He will conduct the floor test Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy will face later today to prove his majority in the house.

Kumaraswamy tabled the confidence motion at around 1.45 pm till we went to the Press. The Assembly has 221 members and Kumaraswamy needs 111 votes for a simple majority. While the BJP has 104 seats, the Congress has 78 and JD(S) has 37 seats. There are two independents.

Earlier to the Speaker's election, BJP's State President B.S. Yeddyurappa said the party withdrew its candidate in order to 'maintain dignity' of the Speaker's post as they wanted the election to be unanimous.

CM Kumaraswamy congratulated Ramesh Kumar and hoped that the next five years pass on peacefully. "We are happy that you have been elected unanimously," he said. Yeddyurappa congratulated Ramesh Kumar and said, "You have an experience as a humble and fair person. The Opposition will cooperate with you in every possible way."

Today's floor test will bring an end to the 10-day political uncertainty in the State that began after the State gave a fractured mandate in the Assembly elections.

Both the events are sponsored by MJS students and family.

ARTISTES' PROFILES

Mudikondan Ramesh plays the veena in a very virtuosic style. Ramesh follows the Gaayaki style of veena playing and his playing is characterised by his unique fingering techniques mellifluousness on the instrument, vibrancy and clarity in bringing out the Saahitya Bhaava of the compositions played.

Born in a family with rich musical tradition, Ramesh belongs to the Sishya Paramparaa of Sangita Kalaanidhi Mudikondan Sri Venkatarama Iyer. His foundation was laid at a very tender age by his father S. Narayanaswami Iyer who had his Gurukula Vaasam under the veteran Sri Venkatarama Iyer.

Ramesh has been performing veena concerts for more than four decades and has travelled extensively on solo concerts and group performances with eminent artistes which were well-received by the western audience.

A rare blessing to learn advanced sessions while performing on stage itself came from the doyen, Violin Vidushi A. Kanyakumari in Vaadhyalahari, an Instrumental Ensemble in which he has been performing for more than two decades along with Mambalam MKS Siva on Naadaswaram. He is an 'A Top' ranking artiste of All India Radio, Chennai.

Apart from Karnatak concerts, he has also teamed up with Hindustani artistes Pandit R. Janaardhan Mittaa and Pandit R. Visweswaran for Jugalbandhi concerts.

He has received awards from several musical organisations and has also been honoured as the Aasthana Vidwaan for Sringeri Sri Sarada Peetam and Sri Kanchi Kamakoti Peetam.

Yoga Vandana was born and brought up in a rich and cultural ambience — both musical and literary. Her mother V. Chandrakala, a gifted vocalist, has been a constant source of inspiration. Her father Prof. Veturi Anandamurthy, a Telugu littérateur, who researched extensively on the works of Tallapaka Annamacharya also guided and encouraged her in her musical endeavours. Hailing from such a background, she developed a natural flair for music. Presently residing in Bengaluru she continues her Sangeetha Sadhana ably supported by her husband J.V. Kamesh, himself a connoisseur of music.

Encouraged by learned mentors and her mother, she started her training in vocal music at a very tender age. However, due to a deep fascination she had for the Veena, she commenced her training on that instrument in all earnestness.

Having her early lessons in Veena under Sridevi and K. Subhashini Shastri, Vandana was subsequently trained by the eminent Veena Maestro Vidwan late V.S. Anantha Rao, senior staff artiste of AIR, Hyderabad, belonging to the Vijayanagaram tradition of Andhra Pradesh.

She honed her skills under his able tutelage and blossomed into a mature artiste. With the blessings of her Gurus and dedicated practice, Vandana has developed a meticulous and traditional technique of Veena rendition. Closely resembling the vocal style, her mellifluous play has drawn wide acclaim in the field of music.

'A Top' Grade artiste of All India Radio and Doordarshan, she has many laurels to her credit. She is a regular Member of Sthree Taranga, a Musical ensemble exclusively by ladies led by Sukanya Ramgopal. Academically, she has a Diploma in Music. Alankar in Music and a Post-Graduate in Zoology.

Disability could not deter this para athlete from taking India to International level

"Specially-Abled persons like to spend some time with people like them and sports acts as a platform where we can forget our pains and motivate us. Hence, specially-abled persons who take up sports should select the game which we are capable of playing. I have a dream of establishing a 'Sports Academy' to provide all necessary information and training on various events for the specially-abled."

—Para Athlete Lingesh

Mysuru, May 25 (PM&KS)- Refusing to let his disability come in the way of his dream, Lingesh, a resident of Madapura village in T. Narsipur taluk, has made it big in international level by winning various medals at para sports meets. Struck with polio when he was three-years-old, Lingesh's parents took him to various hospitals but in vain.

His interest in para sports began two years ago. Lingesh said "Being paralysed from my waist to my feet, I am 75 per cent disabled. I was once watching a para sports meet on TV and thought why couldn't I involve myself in sports and began to collect information on how para sports are played. Later, with determination, I began to practice."

Lingesh, who initially participated in taluk and district-level para sports meets was given an opportunity to participate in the Indian Masters Athletics for the physically challenged at Hyderabad in February 2017. Lingesh, who took part in this meet and played Shot Put, Discus Throw, bagged two gold and one silver medal thus bringing laurels to Mysuru District.

Lingesh, who wanted to do big in international events, participated in the International Para Athletic Championship, organised by Nepal Paralympics Committee at Kathmandu in Oct. 2017 and bagged the second place in Shot Put and Javelin Throw events to bring laurels to the country. He later participated in the National-level Wheelchair Willow Championship held in Bengaluru in Dec. 2017 and the Karnataka team bagged the third place.

Lingesh is working as Madapura Gram Panchayat Rural Rehabilitation activist and is involved in creating awareness about various schemes by the government for the specially-abled. Son of M.L. Lakshman and D. Kamalamma couple, Lingesh, who studied up to SSLC, had discontinued his studies. He later set up a cycle shop and an STD booth to earn a living. He now gets Rs. 3,000 as monthly honorarium from the Gram Panchayat where he is working as an activist.

Pierce Federer Serena

Bengaluru, May 25- Modern-time great Roger Federer has an exceptional mind for game's analysis and Serena Williams is born with a burning desire to succeed and that sets them apart from other players, says two-time singles Grand Slam winner Mary Pierce. Pierce, who won Australian Open (1995) and French Open (2000), said Federer has an array of shots which can't be taught. What I think of Roger is that the shots he plays cannot be taught by anyone. It is almost like he is born to do that," Mary, who is now retired, said on the sidelines of TCS World 10K Bengaluru 2018 here.

"Why he is so good is that the love and passion he has for tennis. He practices hours together. And he passionately watches any match if he happens to see it on television or in the stadium. His coach tells me he has not seen any player talking so much about tennis and always analysing," she added.

Apart from two singles majors, Pierce also win women's doubles French Open with Martina Hingis (2000) and mixed doubles at Wimbledon with India's Mahesh Bhupathi (2005).

On Serena Williams, Mary said the American star is an "incredible competitor."

"I was so impressed with her in Singapore tournament. I was commentating and watching her from nearby stand. It was like such a deep burning desire that she had to win every point. I have never seen that trait in any player that I ever watched," she added. Serena is returning to action after giving birth to a baby girl.

WORD OF THE DAY

Cupreous

Pronunciation: kyoo-pree-uh s, koo-
Meaning: Of or like copper.
Origin: From Latin cupreus, from cuprum ("copper").
Example: Then follows Portugal, with its important output of cupreous pyrites. The principal fluctuations in production were as follows: It should be noted also that from imported cupreous iron pyrites, copper, gold and silver are extracted at some fifteen metal extraction works in Great Britain. Beside this I got a rare mess of golden and silver and bright cupreous fishes, which looked like a string of jewels.

THE ODD WORD

Chanticleer

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A Sight for Sore Eyes

Meaning: A welcome sight; someone or something you are glad to see.

Origin: This phrase was first recorded by Jonathan Swift, in A complete collection of genteel and ingenious conversation, 1738: "The Sight of you is good for sore Eyes."

The title of the work suggests that it was in use prior to his writing it down. The currently used version of the phrase was first recorded by William Hazlitt, in New Monthly Magazine, 1826: "Garrick's name was proposed on condition he should act in tragedy and comedy... What a sight for sore eyes that would be!"

That's all pretty straightforward. The rise of the World Wide Web has given this phrase a new lease of life. 'Sight', 'site' and 'cite' form one of the small number of three-word homophone groups, that is, words that sound the same but are spelled differently. Another three-word example is 'you', 'yew' and 'ewe'.

There is only one happiness in this life, to love and be loved.
